Prestonfield House, Edinburgh

Edinburgh's Christmas markets are world-famous, and with the backdrop of spectacular Edinburgh Castle and lofty Arthur's Seat watching over the city, the festive atmosphere here is unmatched.

For the most indulgent of Scottish Christmases head to Prestonfield House in Holyrood Park, which offers all the delights of a Scottish country estate, while still offering easy access to the city centre. Inside you're met with a dazzling opulence that is unlike anything else; expect sumptuous four-poster beds, rich colours and statement antiques.

Christmas cheer takes over during the festive period, with abundant decorations, blazing fires and countless flickering candles. The hotel's lavish dining rooms are dressed up decadently for the season too and look fit to serve royalty, with festive menus championing Scottish ingredients.

Throughout the month of December guests can attend the Winter Wonderland parties, which include a three-course dinner and Christmas cabaret entertainment, or ring in the new year in gilt and splendour at their highly anticipated Hogmanay Ball.
